LAW ABOVE UNION LABORRULES

PRESIDENT REINSTATES MAN IN PUBLIC PRINTING OFFICE.

He Was Discharged Because He Had Been Expelled From a Labor Union-The President Says No Rules of a Union Can Be Permitted to Override the Law.

WASHINGTON, July 20. Secretary Cortelyou of the Department of Commerce and Labor made the announcement this afternoon that the President had directed the reinstatement of William A. Miller, who was removed some time ago by Public Printer Palmer from his position of assistant foreman at the Government Printing Office, mostly because of the fact that he had been expelled from Local Union No. 4, International Brotherhood of Book-

Miller's offense against the labor union consisted in giving information to a Member of Congress showing how the expenses of the great printing establishment might be reduced and a saving to the Government effected. He contended that his action in giving this information was perfectly proper and justifiable, but as it contemplated a possible reduction of the force in the printing office it was objectionable to the International Brotherhood of Bookbinders, which at once expelled him.

Notice was accordingly sent to the Public Printer that William A. Miller was no longer a member in good standing of the labor union. Public Printer Palmer acted accordingly and directed his removal, explaining in his letter to Miller that it was because of the action of the union in expelling him from membership. Miller at once appealed to the President and the Civil Service Commission. President Receivelt's letters on the subject call attention to the paramount importance of the laws of the United States over the rules of labor organizations and also to the fact that the Anthracite Coal Strike Commission decided that no person should be discriminated against because he was or was not a member of a labor organization. Secretary Cortelyou's statement is as follows:

On May 18, 1903, William A. Miller was removed by the Public Printerfrom his position of assistant foreman at the Government Printing Office. Mr. Miller filed a complaint with the Civil Service Commission, alloging that his removal had been made in violation of the Civil Service law and rules. After an investigation of the complaint and upon July 6, the Civil Service Commission advised | I with an umbrella. the Public Printer of its decision as follows: "Section 2 of civil service rule XII. governing removals, provides that no person shall be removed from a competitive position except for such cause as will promote the efficiency of the public service. The coma labor union, being the action of a body in no way connected with the public service and not having any public employees, to be the public service. As the only reason given by you for the removal of Mr. Fuller is that he was expelled from the Local Union No. 4 Brotherhood of Bookbinders, you are advised that the commission cannot recognize assigned to duty in his position.

Mr. Miller's complaint had also been filed with the President, under whose direction it was being investigated by the Secretary of Commerce and Labor, simultaneously with the investigation by the Civil Service Commission. As a result of such investigation the following letters, under dates of July 13 and 14, 1902, were written by the President PRESIDENT ORDERS REINSTATEMENT.

OYSTER BAY, July 13. MY DEAR SECRETARY CORTELYOU: In accordance with the letter of the Civil Service Commission of July 6, the Public Printer will reinstate Mr. W. A. Miller in his position. Meanwhile I will withhold my final decision of the whole case until I have received the report of the investigation on them caused that strike. At the paper notify me has been begun to-day, July 13. On the face of the papers presented Miller would appear to have been removed in violation of law. There is no objection to the employees of the Government Printing Office constituting themselves into a union if they so desire; but no rules or resolutions of that union can be permitted to override the laws of the United States, which it is my sworn duty to enforce.

Please communicate a copy of the letter to the Public Printer for his information and that of his subordinates. Very truly, yours, THEODORE ROOSEVELT. OYSTER BAY, July 14.

My DEAR MR. CORTELYOU: In connection with my letter of yesterday I call attention to the judgment and award by the Anthracite Coal Strike Commission in their report to

"It is adjudged and awarded that no person shall be refused employment or in any way discriminated against on account of member ship or non-membership in any labor organization, and that there shall be no discrimi nation against or interference with any employee who is not a member of any labor organization by members of such organiza-

I heartily approve of this award and judgment by the commission appointed by me, which itself included a member of a labor union. This commission was dealing with labor organizations working for private employers. It is, of course, mere elementary decency to require that all the Government departments shall be handled in accordance with the principles thus clearly and fearlessly enunciated.

Please furnish a copy of this letter both to Mr. Palmer and to the Civil Service Com-mission for their guidance. Sincerely yours. THEODORE ROOSEVELT. Notice has been sent to Mr. Miller that he has been reinstated and may report for duty any day.

22,000 MEN FIND WORK.

Rest of the 35,000 Who Have Made Peace With Builders Must Wait a While.

About 22,000 men engaged in a dozen of the building trades went to work yesterday under the arbitration agreement of the Employers' Association. Matters were not in such shape that the entire 35,000 included in the agreement could begin, but by tomorrow or Thursday, it is expected, the remainder will find work, as will also members of one or two other unions which are in favor of accepting the agreement.

The plasterers and plasterers' laborers were among those who returned to work yesterday. Most of them went back to their old places. In the other trades at least one-half of the men got their old jobs back.

The board of governors of the employers' association had a long meeting, but did not think it expedient at present to fix a time limit for the general resumption of work. It was announced after the meeting that the Hoisting Engineers' Associa-tion had voted to sign the plan of arbitra-tion, but the signing has been deferred until an official of the union who is out of town returns. He is expected here to-

The action of the union is important because the hoisting engineers, like the housesmiths, can delay the work of other trades. The action of the engineers was hastened by the fact that employers were beginning to use gasolene engines for hoist-

To-day he received further punishment when Recorder Willard M. Kent sentenced him to 100 days in the Tompkins county jail. When his neighbors treated him to a coat of ar and feathers they made him promise tar and teathers they made aim promise to be good or severer penalties would follow. Underwood said that he would drink no more. But last night he came to thaca and immediately proceeded to "tank up." This morning he was still on the streets and was taken to the lockup by a policeman, who did not then know his identity. When he was brought before the Recorder the evidences of his experi-ence were plainly evident, the tar still clinging to his neck and hair. NOT A DIAMOND ON DREIBLATT

CUSTOMS MEN STRIP HEM AND SEARCH HIS CLOTHES.

Pry Into His Talking Dolls and His Baby's Go-Cart-Had a Tip by Cable From Antwerp That He Was Diamondiferous-Was a First Cabin Passenger

On or about the day the Red Star liner Vaderland, which got in yesterday, sailed from Antwerp, the United States Treasury Department received advices from the Dutch diamond centre that it would be well to look out for a first cabin passenger, and was supposed to be a New York jeweller, loaded with diamonds. Accordingly, four special Treasury agents and a specially detailed customs officer were waiting for Mf. Dreiblatt when the Vaderland docked here yesterday.

For a man travelling first class, Mr. Dreiblatt had an unusual collection of luggage. There were no trunks, but he had a goodsized valise that had seen service; two pasteboard boxes, about three feet long and a foot wide, and two bulky parcels done up n brown paper. Mr. Dreiblatt, his valise and his bundles were recognized at the river end of the pier, foot of Fulton street, and the customs officer proceeded to overhaul the luggage.

The valise was tackled first. The first article to be examined was a pair of old rousers. Every pocket was gone through and then one of the Treasury agents felt

Two small balls, that looked as if they were made of leather shoestrings, were found in the bottom of the satchel and these were dissected The strings were unwound and two tiny leather purses dropped on the pier. The purses were beautifully made and the Treasury agents expected to find nothing less than old-mine diamonds inside. But there was never a were scheduled as the first find. The pasteboard boxes were next tackled. One contained a big doll, with blue eyes and golden hair, that could cry and do other patented stunts. The other box contained the brunette sister to the first dolly. The Treasury agents took all sorts of liberties with the dolls, in the expecta-tion of making a great find. But not a diamond was extracted from blond or Chief of Police O'Nelll of Chicago Says

All that was left was Dreiblatt, his beaver hat and the two paper-wrapped parcels. One of the parcels contained a little red wagon, and the other a little piebald horse to go with it. The horse was shaken and turned upside down and his ears and tail were examined for precious stores. When nothing was found cious stones. When nothing was found, Dreiblatt suggested that, if they smashed the toy, the agents might find a sealskin coat or two or three jewelry shops in its

The Treasury agents, who were getting pretty well disgusted by this time, regarded the suggestion as trivial. But they did bounce a couple of big, fancy-painted rubber balls on the pier to see if any diamonds would rattle inside.

Finally, Dreiblatt alone remained. They took him back aboard ship. Then he was stripped and every article of clothing, including the top hat, carefully examined. GEN. GRANT SUSTAINED. Will Not Be Called to Account for His

Order Reflecting on Brackettville, Texas. WASHINGTON, July 20 .- The War Depart ment has decided not to do anything to Brig.-Gen. F. D. Grant, commanding the Department of Texas, for issuing a general court-martial order containing severe strictures on conditions at Brackettville, in that State. The order got into the newspapers, and Brackettville people asked he President and Secretary of War to call Gen. Grant to account for its publication.

In answer to these complaints Gen. Grant said that the order did not reflect on Brack ettville as a community, but was intended to reflect severely upon the dives near who sailed under the name M. Dreiblatt Fort Clark, and he believed that the decent people of Brackettville coincided with the opinion of these resorts expressed in the order.

A complaint to the President against Gen. Grant was referred to the Judge Advocate General of the Army, who has just endered an opinion that as no penal action would lie for a publication affecting the own of Brackettville, the law provides no military remedy, as Gen. Grant was the legal authority, and his action, under the 109th Article of War, final, and is not subject to review by superior military auhority said:

In publishing to the army the action taken in this case the Secretary of War wishes to call the attention of officers to the importance of conforming their action to the requirements of the Department in respect to military education.

It is not the design of the War Department to give the study of theory procedence over practical efficiency, but it is the purpose of the Department that the officers of the army shall study their profession diligently, and they will be required to do so. A failure in this respect will be regarded and treated as a neglect of duty. Interstate Commerce Commissioners power to ask for an injunction to restrain a rail road from charging less than its posted freight rates was brought in the United States District Court at Norfolk, Va., last week. A sweeping preliminary injunction was granted restraining the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, the defendant, from carrying coal, the article against which the complaint was directed, or any other traffic at any greater or less rate than its posted from charging less Railroad Company from receiving any re bate or advantage therefrom. The hear ing for a permanent injunction is to be held on July $1.

The commission's action is based on the original complaint made by W. C. Bullitt, a Philadelphia coal dealer, and the testimony given upon it by President Stevens of the Chesapeake and Ohio, showing that a context of the Chesapeake and Ohio, showing the Chesapea tract was made five years ago by his road to deliver at New Haven 2,000,000 tons of New River coal at the rate of 400,000 tons a year at $2.75 a ton. When the contract a year at $2.75 a ton. When the contract expired in April last, 60,000 tons remained undelivered and a new contract was made for the delivery of that amount at the old rate. After paying for the coal, its transportation from Newport News to New Haven by sea and for discharging it from the vessel, there remained for the railroad company only 28 cents a ton as freight company only 28 cents a ton as freight from the Kanawha district of West Virginia to Newport News, whereas the published rate of the Chesapeake and Ohio for that haul is $1.45 a ton. It is this apparent rebate or discrimination of $1.17 a ton in favor of the New Haven road and against others that forms the basis of the complaint.
